Monday June 2, 2014 - Dr. Richard Cash,

Advancing Differentiation: Thinking and Learning for the 21st Century

Whether you are a beginner or an advanced practitioner, this workshop on differentiated instruction will take you to your next level. The session will frame the basic design of differentiation required for our students to be successful in the 21st century. We will explore techniques for adjusting content, process, product and environment to address student readiness, infuse interests and learning types to motivate and engage and consider the essential tools of complex thinking. Join Dr. Richard Cash, an internationally recognized expert on differentiation and learning as he shares numerous strategies to support struggling learners as well as extend learning for the most advanced students in your classroom. You are sure to leave this workshop with ready-to-implement strategies as well as long-term planning ideas.

Outcomes include

- Specific techniques for differentiation in the 21st century classroom
- Design rigorous learning options for all students
- Support student readiness through purposeful differentiation
- Understand how effective differentiation supports the teaching and learning process

Tuesday June 3, 2014 - Lori Laughlin

The Essential Conversation, What Parents & Teachers can Learn from Each Other

Everyone agrees that parents and teachers should be allies and partners. After all – they are both engaged in the work of guiding and teaching children. Research has demonstrated that parents make a difference in the academic success of their children. However, teachers often do not know how to utilize this resource. You will leave this workshop with ideas and methods that will translate into building effective partnerships between home and school.

Outcomes include:

- Effective parent-teacher conferences
- Linking to Learning
- Keys to family/community partnership
- Implementation of the Curriculum of the Home
- Communication and relationship Building

Registration cost: $80 for two days or $50.00 for either day (includes breakfast and lunch both days)

Registration can be completed and mailed along with payment to: Megan Mersheim attn.: Summer Conference, 1925 Plaza Boulevard | Rapid City, SD 57702
